County 4-H'er Wins Scholarship From Home Demonstration Agency

Alby Ann Kuehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Kuehler of near Canyon, has been selected as one of three 4-H Club girls to receive a $500 THDA scholarship, according to an announcement by Floyd Lynch, state 4-H Club leader. Carol Ansley of Tarrant county and Ann Adams of Brazos county were the other two winners named.

Funds for the three $500 scholarships — the Maggie W. Barry, THDA and the Helen H. Swift — are provided annually by the Texas Home Demonstration Association. Contestants are scored on 4-H Club demonstrations and activities, leadership and personal development.

Miss Kuehler is a sophomore at West Texas State College, where she is majoring in home economics. In 1956, she was awarded a $250 scholarship by the State Farm Bureau in recognition of superior achievement in rural youth leadership.

She has been a 4-H Club member for 10 years. During that time, she has participated demonstrations involving food production, clothing, preparation and preservation, home improvement, landscaping, poultry, safety, wildlife and junior leadership.

"This has meant savings and satisfactions for my family as well as myself," she says in her record. "I learned much from my failures as well as my successes." Savings mean a great deal to her, since she is working part-time to help defray her expenses.

Miss Kuehler started with a food preparation demonstration. Three small brothers, who enjoyed eating, appreciated her efforts. "Learning to plan balanced meals improved our family diet, and various new and economical dishes helped to stretch the budget," she writes in her record. Gardening and poultry demonstrations gave her some experience in food preparation and preservation.

should know how to select, sew and care for clothing. With nine years of clothing work to her credit, she has made everything from aprons to a tailored woolen suit. She is proud of the "professessional look" that she has learned to give to the garments she sews. Wardrobe planning and good grooming are important parts of the clothing demonstrations, too, according to Miss Kuehler.

$5011 Hospital Bill Accepted by County

The biggest bill for hospital care for indigents ever authorized by the Randall County Commissioners Court was signed Monday afternoon by the commissioners.

The bill, for $5,011, was from Northwest Texas Hospital for care for Jesse Ogle, 16, who was injured in an automobile accident in November. The bill covered the period from Nov. 9 until April 1.

In other business the court accepted a bid of $993.05 from Steck Company of Austin for supplying 17,000 tax receipts for next year. Another bid of $1,231.25 from Bennett's of Dallas was received.

Eagle Tracksters Win Amarillo Relays

Canyon's Eagles flew in, around, over and in front of a good sized field of entries to win first place in the smaller-school division of the Amarillo Relays held Saturday in Amarillo. Happy was second in the division.

Charles Neblett was head bird for the Eagles, winning 17 1/6 points out of the 21 23/30 which were chalked up for Canyon. Neblett was judged the outstanding hurdler in the meet and was awarded the Leslie Cazzell Memorial Trophy. He won first in both the 180 and 120-yard hurdles.

In addition to the first places in the hurdles events, Neblett placed first in the 100-yard dash, was third in the high jump, and tied for third in high jump.

Harlie Adams, the Eagles' dependable half miler, came in ahead of the pack again to place first in that event. Elston Burkham placed fourth in shot put; George Snapp got second in the broad jump and tied for second in pole vault; and Richard Burgess placed second in the discus throw.

Gary Poage starred for Happy in the meet, winning first in the broad jump and 220-yard dash, second in the 100-yard dash and tied for second in the high jump. Poage broke his own old Amarillo Relay record of 22'5 in the broad jump, which he set in 1955 by jumping 22'7.

Council Orders Paving Dropped

A delegation of property owners who live west of the Santa Fe tracks in the west end of Canyon asked the city commission Monday night for water and sewer services or to be let out of the city limits. The property owners, who live in Bomar addition, said they had never had any city services at all, and were once promised a tax reduction because of the lack of city services. The reduction, which some received one year, did not remain, however.

The city commission agreed that the property owners were entitled to have city services extended to them, or to be let out of the city. The commission said that the city's finances will not allow the extension of services, though.

The delegation was advised to present a petition with as many signatures of the property owners as possible so that the city could begin formal action to release the area.

The property involved is that south of Fourth Avenue and west of the first platted block west of First Street. The east boundary of the area is a platted street which is just west of the tracks and is unnamed.

In other action, the commission voted to return paving money put up by property owners along Second Avenue from 12th Street west to 4th Street and north across the Santa Fe mail line to Highway 60, and from 4th Street west to the Consumers Co-op elevator.

The action was taken because the city has been unable to acquire the necessary right of way for the paving. Most of the right of way needed belongs to the Santa Fe.

The commission said that even if the right of way is obtained soon, the paving could not be done this summer and that the money put up by the property owners should be returned.

The commission also authorized the hiring of Leon Hoyt and Company of Amarillo to conduct the annual audit of the city following the close of the fiscal year. The company prepared last year's audit.

Two Women Land on Local School Board

MRS. R. A. NEBLETT

Two women were elected to the Canyon Independent School District board in an election Saturday to give the board two women members simultaneously for the first time in the history of the district.

Mrs. R. A. Neblett and Mrs. Clay Cooper won in the election against Newton Crain, present president of the board, and Kenneth Erwin.

Two other women have served on the board in recent years, Mrs. Dan Sanders and Mrs. Ed Harrell.

The highest total vote since 1950 was recorded in the election, with a total of 529 registering.

In addition to the election for the independent district board, an election was held for members of the county school board for Precincts 1 and 3. E. R. (Dutch) Cleavinger was elected to the county board for Precinct 1 and Homer Bryan was elected for Precinct 3. Both are incumbents.

No notice of the election for the county board had been posted, and printed ballots were not available. Blank ballots were passed out by the election judges to some of the voters, although all who voted in the independent board election were not given the blank ballots for the county election.

Vote totals in the independent board election were as follows:
Mrs. Neblett, 314.
Mrs. Cooper, 271.
Crain, 246
Erwin, 222.

Post Office Service Cuts Start Saturday

Acting Postmaster Marion Higdon has orders to begin curtailing mail service in Canyon on Saturday if Congress does not appropriate an additional $47 million to operate the Post Office Department until the end of June.

Higdon said his orders are to stop all city and rural deliveries on Saturdays if the appropriation is not made. He said the orders apparently will allow first class mail and daily newspapers to be placed in Post Office boxes, however.

On Monday, the window service in the Post Office will be cut to 8½ hours, according to the orders, Higdon said. He said they will probably be open from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., although a definite decision has not been made yet.

If Congress has not appropriated the additional sum of money requested by Postmaster General Summerfield, the services of the Post Office will be cut further on April 29.

On that date, the Post Office will suspend money order service and will no longer accept third class mailings, which include circulars, merchandise, printed matter, catalogues, plants and the like.

Higdon said the orders from the department allow an exception on the suspension of third class mailings. Medicines, serums and medical supplies will still be accepted as third class mail, he said.

Aggies Plan Roundup Saturday

An "Aggie Round-Up" for former agriculture students has been set here Saturday at West Texas State College, and several hundred ex-aggies from the Panhandle area are expected.

The day-long program gets underway at 9 a. m. with registration and a coffee hour at the agriculture building, with guided tours of the agriculture department and its farm facilities at 10 a. m. Nursery arrangements for children and entertainment for wives have been planned.

Following a barbecue at noon on the college tennis courts, a formal program will be held at 1:30 p. m. in the Branding Iron Theatre. WT President James P. Cornette will welcome exes, and Charles SoRelle of Claude will respond.

Milton Morris, executive secretary of the WT Ex-Students Association, will be master of ceremonies.

Speakers will include Dr. Tillman M. Moore of San Antonio, former agriculture instructor and director of the college farm, speaking on "The T-Anchor Boys;" Frank R. Phillips, retired department head, speaking on "My Thirty-three years at WT;" and Dr. M. R. Calliham, present department head, speaking on "The Agriculture Department Today."

A panel of senior agriculture students will discuss "What We as Students Would Like to See in the Agriculture Department," and Virgil Henson, WT business manager, is to talk on future development of the department.

College Announces Changes in Coaching Staff, PE Department

Plans for expanding West Texas State's physical education department and athletic program have brought four personnel changes, effective Sept. 1, President James P. Cornette has announced.

- W. A. "Gus" Miller, athletic director and head basketball coach since 1942, will now devote full time to expanding the program of the physical education depratment.
- Frank Kimbrough, head football coach, will take on additional duties as athletic director.
- Borden Price, freshman basketball coach, will become head basketball coach.
- Hatcher Brown, assistant football coach and intramurals director, will succeed Price as freshman basketball coach.

The other member of the West Texas athletic staff, Clark Jarnagin, will remain as football line coach.

Another staff member, to assist Miller in physical education, will be added this summer. All members of the staff teach along with their coaching.

Dr. Cornette said the moves were brought about because increasing enrollment, especially among men, makes it necessary to broaden physical education offerings, not only in course work but in such activities as intramural sports. Expansion plans also call for addition of several minor sports to the athletic program.

In 14 seasons at West Texas, Miller compiled a record of 176 wins against 128 defeats in basketball. From 1942 to 1947 he also coached football and turned in an 18-16 mark.

An all-around athlete at West Texas State, Miller went into the high school coaching field after graduation in 1927. After successful stints at Slaton and Trinidad, Colo., he moved on to Texas Wesleyan College in Fort Worth. His record, prior to his return to his alma mater in 1942, stood at 260 wins and 47 losses in basketball and 159-43-2 in football.

A fitting tribute to his outstanding work was paid Miller in 1954 when he was named to the NAIA (National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics) Hall of Fame. He also is a former president of that association.

BORDEN PRICE

During his tenure at West Texas, Coach Miller has taken Buffalo teams to such outstanding showplaces as Madison Square Garden, Chicago Stadium, Miami's Orange Bowl, San Francisco's Cow Palace and Philadelphia's Convention Hall.

He directed the Buffs to three co-championships in the Border Conference. His squad shared the crown with Arizon ain 1942-43, New Mexico A & M in 1951-52, and Texas Tech in 1954-55.

GUS MILLER

Price, another West Texas alumnus, has been an assistant to Miller since 1947. He picked up his diploma in 1946 after World War II interrupted his college work.

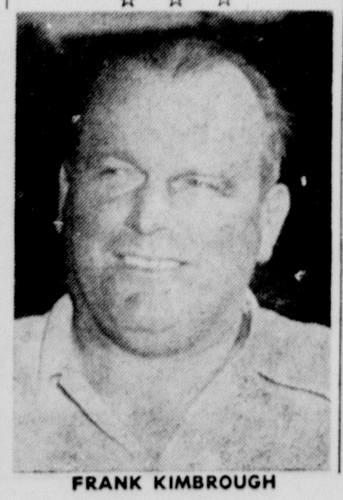

A letterman in football and basketball, Price was captain of the 1940-41 West Texas cage squad. He played guard in basketball and was an outstanding end in football.

After graduation, Price taught briefly at Clovis, N. M., Junior High School, and was employed by the Veterans Administration before returning to West Texas in 1947.

Since joining the West Texas staff, Price also has assisted in football, coaching the ends and serving as head scout the past two seasons. During the summer, he directs the West Texas swimming program.

A graduate of Springlake High School, the new head basketball coach is married to the former Imogene Davis and they have four children.

☆ ☆ ☆

FRANK KIMBROUGH

Kimbrough has been head football coach at West Texas since 1947, coming here from Baylor. Before his stint at the Waco school, 1941-46, he coached six seasons at his alma mater, Hardin-Simmons.

His 1950 team won West Texas State's only Border Conference title and went on to beat Cincinnati, 14-13, in the Sun Bowl. Last year's club won eight and lost two, including a 20-13 victory over Mississippi Southern in the Tangerine Bowl.

His record at West Texas stands at 47 wins, 49 defeats and two ties. Kimbrough's overall mark in major colleges is 105-75-8.

Brown has been a member of the West Texas coaching staff since 1948, working mainly with the backfield in football. A 1931 graduate of West Texas, he played both football and basketball.

He coached at Tulia and Denver City high schools before going to West Texas High in 1945. When the training school was discontinued in 1948, he joined the college staff.

This issue of The Canyon News is the first in the 62nd year of continuous publication. We have planned no special celebration of our anniversary, being content with the attempt to provide the kind of newspaper that our readers want—or at least the kind of newspaper we think our readers want. You see, it's seldom that we hear one way or the other about the kind of job we are doing although we'd like to hear more often.

Just like any person, we are not especially happy to find out we're not doing as we should, but when we know we are not what we should be, we can do something about it. Let us know your thoughts, tell us if The Canyon News is serving you as you think it should.

Apparently Postmaster General Summerfield is using his plea for an additional $47 million for the Post Office Department as a wedge in obtaining a raise in postal rates this year. His methods are indefensible, to my way of thinking.

In the first place it's illegal for a government agency to spend more than a fourth of its appropriation in any one quarter of the fiscal year. In the second place, the Post Office Department got more money appropriated during the last session of Congress than it asked for.

And in the third, and most important place, the Postmaster General has threatened Congress—you and me through our representatives—with an either-or proposition. Either his department gets more money, or his department quits doing its job. I'm willing to tell our congressman, Walter Rogers, to let the Postmaster General go through with his threat. I doubt that he would.

On the larger and ultimate question of higher postal rates in order to make the department self sustaining there are two philosophies. One is that the department performs a service that should be maintained as cheaply as possible to the user, and should be subsidized by tax money, or that everyone should underwrite the operation of the postal service regardless of how much each individual uses the services of the department.

The other philosophy holds that the cost of the postal service should be borne by those who use the service. Or in other words, each piece of mail should bear enough postage to pay for its passage to its destination.

I prefer the second philosophy if for no other reason than that it cost less for each person to pay directly than it does to send money to Washington in the form of taxes to pay for the services of the Post Office Department. (Of course if the postal rates were raised enough to make the department self-sustaining, we would expect a tax decrease in the amount of the annual Post Office appropriation.)

And also, if the rates were raised it would be only fair that every person or institution using the mail service should pay its fair share of the costs, and that includes the federal government itself.

As an example, in the mail that comes into The Canyon News office, the largest single user of the postal services is the executive branch of the federal government. Every day we receive mail from one or more of the departments, each piece sent "free," and most of the letters are asking for space to promote this activity or that.

We get advertisements from the Treasury Department to promote the sales of Savings Bonds—none of that mail ever includes any payment for the space it is asking we donate.

We get letters from the Department of Health, Welfare and Whathaveyou wanting us to warn housewives they must collect Social Security from houseworkers.

We get letters from the collector of Internal Revenue wanting us to exhort taxpayers to send their money in early this year, or to make no mistakes in filling out income tax blanks.

We get letters from the Army, Navy and Air Force Recruiting stations wanting us to help get young men and women to join the service.

We get letters from the Army and Navy Hometown News Centers telling us what the sons and daughters of those who live in this area are doing, when they are promoted or transferred.

We get letters from the draft board in Hereford telling us that umpteen hundred Texans signed up for the draft during the past month, another umpteen joined up or were drafted while a third umpteen were discharged from the services last month.

We get letters from the Department of Agriculture telling of all sorts of things that I seldom can understand.

The Post Office Department (the one that's run plumb out of money) even sends us a little magazine it publishes to help the morale of postal workers.

I think you can understand what I mean. Every once in a while, a congressman or a senator sends us something that he thinks we should know about and we even get an occasional personal letter from one of them.

But when yo ucompare the amount of mail newspapers get from congressmen with the amount received from the executive branch, it's ridiculous.

So I'm willing to pay a bit more for each letter I write, package I send or newspaper I mail, but not unless the executive branch of the government cuts down on what it sends for "free." I'm not willing to pay at both ends of the deal.

And Mr. Summerfield can just take his Saturdays off if that's the way he feels about it.

I see by The Texas Outlook, the official publication of the Texas State Teachers Association, that the average school in the nation now spends approximately $295 per year on each pupil in daily attendance as compared to $88.09 in 1940. The article says that is an increase of 235 per cent in current dollars, but carefully points out that measured in terms of pre-war dollars, "it represents an increase of only 71 per cent in purchasing power."

You'll note the use of the word "only." The people of the United States are "only" spending "only" about three-fourths more for public education than they did in 1940. Let's hope the people of the United States are "only" getting at least "only" half for their money now than they were getting in 1940.

Further on the subject of public education, I heard advanced the other day the theory that "professional" educators are trying to wrest control of the public schools from the people because the "professionals" do not feel the people are capable of making their own decisions about what they want their schools to do.

The theory held that the "professionals" don't want a frontal attack on the local school board system, fearing they cannot win. Therefore, they are trying to get control of the schools through the avenue of federal aid.

If that theory is true, and it could be, the "professionals" have sold the President of the United States on the idea that the people cannot provide enough school rooms for their children's educations, and the federal government must therefore take the money away from the people and use it to build the school rooms. And you can just bet a "professional" educator would be in charge of passing the money out.

Try this on for size and see if it fits. According to the National Education Association, the nation needs to build 328 new classrooms every day this year in order to catch up with the needs of the 32,338,688 school children. It sounds like a lot when you add it all together.

Bring it closer to home, though, and it takes on a different light. Right now, the classrooms in the Canyon elementary school are slightly overcrowded. There are three or four too many in each of the first grade rooms, a couple over in the fourth grade rooms and so on. But there aren't enough in any of the grades to warrant building a new classroom for them. In the lump sum, the overage is probably enough to warrant an additional classroom in the system—but who ever heard of building only one classroom?—BC

By BOYCE HOUSE

Near a West Texas town which had experienced a big oil boom, there stood an old deserted, mysterious house built of stone. During the boom, the place was a gambling hall and the owner and his assistant lived there. One night after the crowd had left and the place was silent, a sound was heard. (All this, the authorities were told afterward.) The two men investigated and, in the darkness, the assistant fired and then found that he had shot the owner to death.

Years went by—and one day a man came to town. He had the same name as the owner of the gambling house had had. Was he the same man? Had someone else been killed and palmed off as the proprietor, with him doing a "fade-out" for reasons of his own? And had he come back, now that "the heat was off" to look for a large amount of gambling profits which, it was rumored, were concealed in the old house?

Several who had known the gambler said that they had seen the body and that it was his and they declared emphatically that it was just a coincidence that the visitor had the same name.

The old house has been torn down. Was a treasure found when it was demolished?

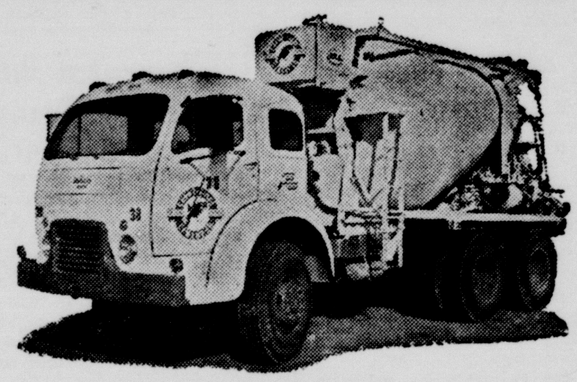

Life is filled with unanswered questions.

Former Congressman Sam Russell of Stephenville served as district attorney. One day, he put in a long distance call, collect, to a big city paper. The man at the other end of the wire expressed hesitancy about accepting the call. Russell said, "Operator, it's all right with me if the paper isn't interested in hearing about a man's head being found in a tow-sack." The collect call was accepted.

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Possible Tax Cut?

Much of the talk on Capitol Hill is centering around the possibility of a tax cut. This talk has been generated to a great extent by the grass roots demands for a cut in the budget.

Many of the letters being received by Members of Congress concerning reduction of the budget—and the mails are full of them—also point out the urgent need for a tax reduction. This brings about discussion of two different philosophies of tax reduction.

One group wants the budget cut before taxes are reduced and argues that this is the only responsible way to do it. This sounds good, but it seems every Administration wants to increase the budget, which means that the possibility of tax reduction slips further away.

I have no objection to permitting a tax reduction that depends upon a cut in the budget, provided we have some assurance that the budget would be cut to the extent that a tax reduction could be possible. However, I think experience will show that the effective way to cut down on governmental expenditures is to cut down on the income and require that expenditures not exceed the income.

This procedure might appear too drastic to many; however, effectiveness sometimes requires extra drastic measures.

The big fuss about tax reduction will center around the time element. The Administration has already begun to advertise the possibility of a tax reduction next year. Next year is, of course, another election year.

Those who are not sympathetic to or friendly with the fiscal operations of the Administration take the position that a tax cut should be forthcoming this year. I might point out that I have again introduced a bill which I have introduced every year I have been in Congress.

This bill would increase the allowance for dependents from $600 to $1000 for the taxpayer and $600 for the spouse. It would increase the dependents allowance for children from $600 to $750.

Several have asked me why I did not provide an allowance of $1000 for children. Let me say that I would have no objection to an amendment to my bill allowing $1000 for children. The reason I placed the exemption at $750 was because of the number of children I have. One member suggested that I had better not go too high on children's exemptions or someone might think it was a private bill for the primary benefit of the Rogers family.

I assure you such was not the case, but if anyone needs evidence that $600 is insufficient and unrealistic as an exemption with which to raise a child, let them come by the house sometime and I will be glad to entertain them for two or three days.

I have one boy who tore the claws off a hammer. Don't ask me how he did it. I don't know, nor does he, according to his report.

Many tax experts say that my bill is not the proper approach, because it would permit many people who have sizeable families to be wholly exempt from taxation. They argue that everyone should be required to pay taxes so they will understand the obligations incident to the democratic form of government.

My answer to these experts is that if anyone in this country who buys a loaf of bread, a pair of sox or anything else in the way of necessities, has the idea they are not paying several kinds of taxes, they should not be molested in their dreamland.

Public Lands

Much has been printed in recent years about the federal government's vast holdings of lands and the great need to get some of this property back into private ownership and on the tax rolls.

I have recently introduced a resolution to set into operation machinery to inventory and evaluate all of the lands owned by the federal government. This would include the lands controlled by every department or agency of the federal government.

It must be remembered that a great deal of public land consists of mountain tops, swamps, desert areas and barren lands that are unwanted and could not be maintained by private individuals. Much of this is land held by the government in the first instance and has continued in the ownership of the government because no one else wants it.

On the other hand, there has been land acquisition by almost every department and agency of the government. Although many of the tracts are small in size, they dot the entire country and its insular possessions. In many instances this land is located in cities where land values are high.

It is kept off the local and state tax rolls. Much of it is in excess of the needs of the government for the particular use to which it is being put.

It would be far better if most of this was turned back into private ownership where it could be utilized in building the community and pay its fair share of the taxes. The same is true of much rural land purchased by this government in the last 30 years.

I appreciate the need for government ownership of certain parcels of land, but when this land is not properly utilized or serving an effective purpose, it is unfair for the taxpayers in a town or community to carry the added burden that would be borne by these federal holdings.

In some instances requests are made of the federal government to make grants to the cities or communities in lieu of the taxes which would be paid if these holdings were in private hands.

When these grants are made it constitutes a double penalty, because the local taxpayers can never expect to realize as much from the grant in lieu of taxes as would be paid on the land if it was used for business purposes by private individuals. Also, it must be remembered that grants made by the federal government as payment in lieu of taxes must eventually come out of the taxpayers pockets.

I feel that a fair and reasonable approach to the management of these lands, and the disposal of those that are not needed, will do much to help discharge the public debt and reduce budget requirements for the future.

Who rates what for performance and smoother riding in the low-priced three? Chevrolet has laid the answer and the proof on the line!

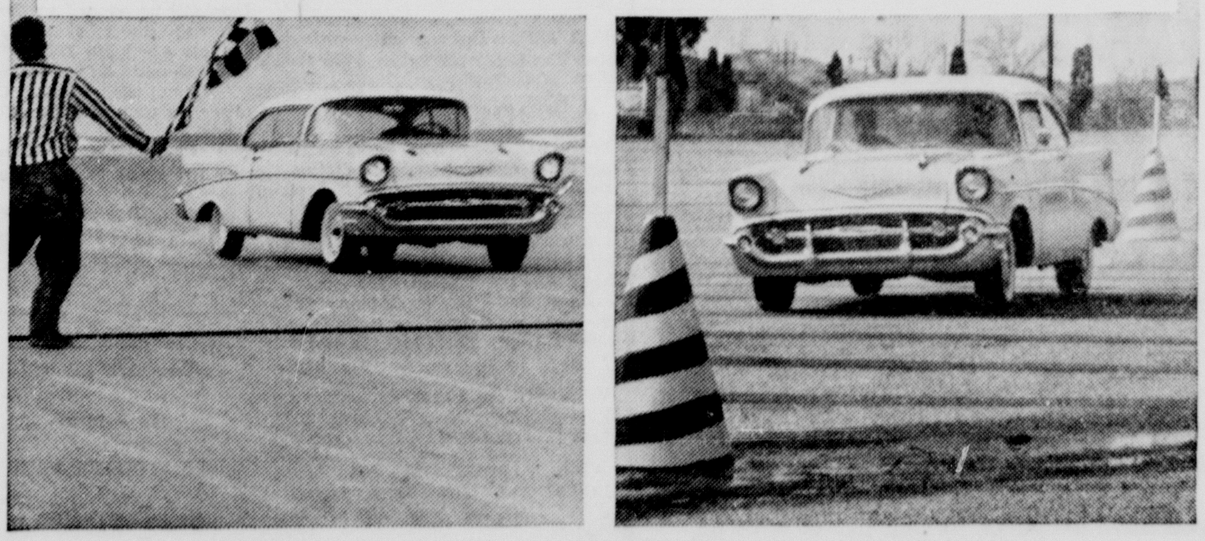

First, Chevrolet won the Auto Decathlon over every car in its field, and over the higher priced cars that were tested, too. This rugged ten-way test (right, below) showed Chevrolet was the champ in handling ease, braking, acceleration, passing ability, smoothness of ride and other driving qualities you want in a car.

Then, Chevy won the Pure Oil Performance Trophy at Daytona (left, below) as "best performing U. S. automobile."

It's quite a feeling to know that you are driving a car that performs so well, responds so beautifully and is so finely built. You feel proud, of course. But you also enjoy a surer, smoother, steadier way of going, a keen cat-quick response of power, and the easiest handling you've ever experienced behind a wheel. Just try this Chevrolet (V8 or Six) and see!

BALLET COMES TO COLLEGE

Ballet will come to the West Texas State College campus Friday, when the Amarillo Civic Ballet Company appears in the Branding Iron Theatre. The show here will be sponsored by Buffalo Masquers, campus dramatics club.

Directed by Gene Galle and Bill Leighton, ballet master, the company of 25 will present some of the best known numbers staged by world famed companies, including "Les Sylphides," portions of Offenbach's "Gaite' Parisenne," and Schumann's "Masques."

The program will open at 8:15 p. m., and admission is 75 cents for adults and college students and 50 cents for high school students and children. Tickets may be obtained at the WT speech department.

The company was organized last September and has made several appearances in the Tri-State area. They were last seen in Clayton, N. M.

Probably one of the best known ballets, "Les Sylphides" features music by Chopin with choreography after the original Fokine. Selections include an overture, nocturne, mazurka, prelude, and a waltz.

Other selections to be presented include a waltz from Rogers and Hammerstein's "Carousel," and "Clair de Lune" by Debussy.

One WT student, Norman Eubanks of Amarillo, is a member of the company.

Seesee Birds On South Side of Canyon And Aoudad Sheep Live on 'Tother

Reinforcements for the first batch of seesee partridges obtained from far-away Pakistan for experimental stocking in the Texas Panhandle have begun to arrive, according to W. C. Parker, assistant director of wildlife restoration.

A consignment of 100 of the game birds, almost the same size as a bobwhite quail, was released Sunday on the McGee ranch near Happy. Another shipment of 100 birds is expected to be ready for release by May 1.

Parker said few reports have been received about the first release but said project personnel were unable to locate the birds. "They have been swallowed up by the wild country and we won't begin to worry about survival until the additional numbers have been released and have had a fair chance to set up housekeeping and begin trying to raise their families."

He did say that more than ordinary attention will probably be given the Palo Duro Canyon country hereafter since the seesees will be on one side of the wilderness and the recently released wild aoudad sheep will be on the other side.

The seesee partridges, described as a hair smaller than ordinary quail, were obtained from Pakistan through the United States Fish and Wildlife Service which coordinated the requisition through the United States State Department.

Parker said the sturdiness of the fleet game birds was "pretty well tested" in the transfer from their Pakistan habitat to Texas. They were in Far East quarantine three weeks and in New York customs quarantine three weeks. Only two days were required for the actual flight from Pakistan to New York. Then came an overnight trip via air freight from New York to Dallas, from where the six crates were trucked to the Panhandle.

The 100 feathered immigrants in the first 1957 shipment survived the ordeal remarkably well, with only two reported "in puny condition." These birds, and the second batch of 100, were in charge of Wildlife Biologist Richard DeArment of Wheeler, pending final release under the supervision of A. S. Jackson, Chief Biologist for the Panhandle.

Jackson said he is hopeful that some of the transplanted game "will take hold" as a means of supplementing native species which have been so hard hit by recent drouth and by growing shortage of natural habitat.

He said "there is some optimism" for the future of another imported upland game species—the red-legged partridge, a larger bird, released in Cottle and Lipscomb counties also in the Panhandle. However, additional time is needed before the success or failure of the transplant can be determined.

The third shipment of redlegs was placed on the open range in February this year. They are about twice the size of bobwhites.

Jackson said at least some redlegs survived their first sharp winter weather test. He flushed three of them in Lipscomb County after the recent blizzard which was particularly severe in that area.

'You Can't Learn It All at Once,' Civil Defense Director Tells Council

In civil defense work you can't learn it all at once, but must start with a small part of it and work from there, Robert Roseberry, civil defense director for Amarillo and Potter County, told the Randall County Home Demonstration Council Tuesday afternoon, April 2, in a meeting at the Farm Bureau building.

This the director told the women as he outlined civil defense work in order that the council members would be able to tell their respective clubs about civil defense.

Instructors for civil defense may be obtained from the Red Cross, or the city or county government, which is obligated to furnish information, he said, or if necessary from outside help such as the Federal Civil Defense.

To begin civil defense programs in a community Roseberry advised beginning with a specific field such as first aid, moving from there to an advanced course and then to an instructors course. Instructors in turn would begin classes.

The civil defense director urged the women to pick leaders for civil defense who are interested then make it possible for them to obtain proper training and then help them organize classes. "If you want to learn a subject you teach it," he said.

In his talk on civil defense, the director told the women that there is small difference between city and rural area in atomic attack. The main difference is that people would vacate immediately the cities and seek refuge in rural areas which must be prepared with shelter, first aid, food and clothes, he said.

Shelter is not recommended within 15 miles of target areas, according to the director. He defined this target area as all of Potter and Randall Counties and the aiming point as mid-way on a straight line between the helium plant and the Amarillo Air Force Base.

He recommended that the clubs devote a program to study of emergency sanitation and said films on this were available at the Amarillo Bivins Library.

He cited the importance of Red Cross in civil defense. "The best way to have a Red Cross as you want it is to get interested and get active in it," Roseberry said. He said one of the main benefits of first aid is that it makes a person safety conscious which would result in fewer accidents.

He distributed folders of pamphlets concerning civil defense for the women to use in leading a defense study in clubs.

Foibles Accumulate

Let's analyze those hum-drum figures a little more closely. It seems from the survey taken among CHS drivers some pretty interesting figures resulted.

Over a two week period it was pretty easy to get an idea of the good and weak points of the drivers.

Oh! certainly we saw no one run down by a car or no bones broken but we observed some driver foibles which could and if practiced long enough will result in serious accidents.

As many glided past the stop signs time after time they must have thought, "Oh! What's a stop sign anyway? No body is coming!" Pity is to be bestowed on the fellows who travel behind CHS drivers, for rarely is a signal given indicating a turn. Maybe a prize should be given the follower for guessing so well. It's interesting to note that corners are for turning—not cutting. Yes, many cars strayed out of the correct lane while turning or backing.

From the survey, the results show that Canyon High drivers are generally courteous, but that from habit driving weaknesses accumulate which might result in a bad driver public.

Strategic Position

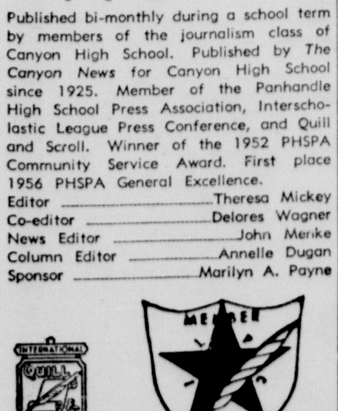

Youth holds the destiny of the world in their hands. In this fast moving world we live in, we, the youth of America, play a great role.

The high school students of today will make tomorrow's presidents, foreign ministers, missionaries, teachers, doctors. From high positions that are waiting to be filled by us, we see the necessity of preparing ourselves properly in order to be successful and fulfill what is expected of us.

Since young people hold such a strategic position, how can we prepare ourselves to meet the Future demands of a great, changing world?

How do young people in other lands prepare for the future? The answer is simple—they inform themselves. They keep up with current events, not only in their own country, but in all the world. In fact, it is said that many European young people know more about American government and politics than we, the American youth.

Let's be up on our toes, so to speak, informing ourselves, taking advantage of every opportunity for further education. If we have followed this route as young Americans we can proudly take our place as informed voters, civic leaders, good American citizens in the adult world.

Eagles Crowned District Champs

Sparked by Charles Neblett, who captured five first places, and totaled seven first places in the District 1-AA track meet in Amarillo March 30, the Canyon Eagles won the district title honors of the meet.

Compiling over 53 points during the meet, the Eagles were well out in front of the nearest opponent, Dalhart, who finished with 33 points.

Charles Neblett had a tremendous day while winning first in the 120 yard high hurdles, 180 yard low hurdles, 100 yard dash, broad jump, and tied for first in the high jump.

Elston Burkham hurled the shot 46 feet, which won for him a first place in the event. He took third in the discus.

Richard Burgess captured first in the discus with a mark of 136 feet. He won second in the shot put contest.

Craig Hinger placed in a three-way tie for first in the high jump with a height of 5 ft. 3 in.

George Snapp received three second place wins. He was in a four-way tie for second in the high jump. He took second in the broad jump and pole vault.

The sprint relay team composed of Eddie Boydstun, Harlie Adams, A. L. Pruett and George Snapp placed fourth in the meet.

Harlie Adams won first in the 880 yard run.

The Life Saved May Be Your Own

Are you a safe driver? Do you want to become a safe driver? "The life you save may be your own." In order to improve our driving, a careful analysis and review of the facts of the causes of wreckless driving is necessary. Once we know our mistakes, we can better go about correcting them.

There are many obvious causes of automobile accidents. Such as failure to observe road signs, taking chances on a hill, curve or intersection, excessive speed and in general, carelessness.

Other accidents are the result of obscure physical and mental causes.

The feeling of insecurity is an outstanding example of a mental effect. Insecure persons are often tempted to show off at the wheel because the auto supplies them with a false sense of security.

Another large factor is the driver's lack of maturity. Many adults are guilty of this, too. This kind of person is incapable of controlling his emotions and frustrations. Although women are often teased by men about being "women drivers," statistics show that women are better drivers than men. Could this be accredited to the fact that women, on the average, mature faster than men?

Still another mental factor in the make-up of the causes of auto accidents is the element of attitude. A person's attitude in life greatly affects his driving. If the person has respect for others and is courteous, he has a good attitude and is a good driver.

Physical conditions are equally important. Such conditions as eye sight, reflexes and weariness account for many accidents. Night driving is an ideal time for weariness to overcome us. Our eyesight and reflexes are less dependable.

Together the mental and physical conditions account for 90 per cent of all the auto accidents. They could be prevented.

An old joke implying that the Russians were not worrying about us being a political threat to them so long as we kept having these enormous accident fatalities, seems almost true. It is a known fact that autos cause many more deaths than the wars. We all think that war is a terrible thing and that we should work to promote peace. Thus we should work even harder to promote safe driving since driving causes even more deaths.

Besides causing millions of dollars a year in property damages, auto accidents cause invaluable damages in the form of broken homes, handicaps brought about through injuries and the loss of families and friends.

There are many aids to safe driving. Driver's education is one and is required in many states. We are looking forward to the time when it will be required by law in Texas. This course is recommended because in this course students learn how to operate, properly use and handle a car both safely and efficiently.

A Safe Driving Day was set up not too long ago for the promotion of safety, and the prevention of accidents. Why not practice the habits of SDD the whole year, instead of just for one day?

Autos are like so many other things which can either work with or against men. Which will it be?

Seniors Beckoned to Gay Paree By Juniors at Annual Banquet

Ah, gay Paree!!

Students, faculty and room parents of Canyon transported themselves to a sidewalk cafe in Paris when they attended the annual Junior-Senior Banquet and Prom at the grade school all-purpose room March 30.

Theme of the evening was a sidewalk cafe in Paris. This theme was carried out by seating the persons in attendance at cardtables arranged in a sidewalk restaurant manner. Candles were set in wine bottles. Artificial trees and fences separated the dining room from the dancing space. Awnings were set over the tables that were set up along the length of the room.

Speaker was Dr. E. N. Jones, president of Texas Tech. His talk gave the students and faculty members and school board members ideas on how to be better Americans and to be free to do their best.

Dana Wilbanks, master of ceremonies, extended welcome, and Larry Brandon, president of the senior class, gave the response. The Parisian Eight, who are members of the junior class, sang three songs.

The Sultans of Swing, a dance band from Texas Tech, played for the prom.

The menu was ham and raisin sauce, green beans, potatoes, jello salad and pineapple pie. As they say in gay Paree the menu consisted of Le Viande, La Sauce Aux Raisins Sec, Mont Blanc, Les Haricots de la Schiaparelli, Painet Beurre and Arcde Triomphe.

Championship Bid Blasted by Olton

The girls volleyball team lost to Olton in the finals of a tournament to determine the championship of Class 1-AA.

The tournament, held in the high school gym April 2 and 3, was to decide the district championship by determining the winners of the north and south halves of the district and pitting them against each other.

Canyon High won the north half of the championship by defeating Dalhart and Tulia. Olton won the south half and defeated the Eaglettes for the district championship. Olton met Spur for the regional championship.

Players for Canyon High were Barbara Brown, Wynona Yarborough, LaVerne Riley, Janie Brotherton, Carolyn Glanton, Marilyn Winn, Traverne Gillham, Joy Rose, Ann Howard, Nita House and Shella Caldwell.

Chemistry Lab Is Scene of Meeting

The Science Club met in the chemistry lab of West Texas State College on April 4.

Program for the evening was the performance of chemistry experiments by several college students, including some ex-students of Canyon High. As members of the Science Club observed, students explained their experiments. Dr. Roger Whealy, professor of chemistry at WT, was master of ceremonies.

Assisting in an area science club meeting and exhibit, the Canyon High Science Club aided other science clubs of the area. The exhibit was held April 6 at WT.

CHS also had the welcoming program April 5. Dr. James Cornette, president of WT, made a short address of welcome, and Dr. Whealy spoke to the assembly.

JANET TAYLOR

☆ ☆ ☆

Chiquita Janet Reina Espanola Reigns Over Busy Los Picaros

Janet Taylor, Spanish Queen, is very active in Los Picaros, the Spanish Club of CHS.

Janet is a member of the Science Club, Student-Faculty Congress, National Honor Society and Rainbow Girls. She is vice president of the junior class and was chosen a member of Junior Who's Who this year.

Playing the piano is one of Janet's hobbies, and she would like to teach it later on.

The members of Los Picaros have been practicing for a play entitled "El Fantasma de Punta Guijarros." It will be presented at a meeting for the parents and friends of the club members.

The play is about a legend and what it is actually supposed to have done for the daughter of a Don in the one-time village of Southern California.

The cast for the play is as follows: Carmen, daughter of an aristocrat, played by Rachel Smith; Maria, a servant to Carmen who has been with her since birth, Delores Wagner; Pablo, a gardener to Carmen's father and deeply in love with Carmen, Bonnel Riley; Ramon, the true lover of Carmen, Jean McDaniels.

Safe Driving Campaign Culminated By Selection of Best CHS Drivers

Although Mr. Magoo, John Menke, didn't get the clue that the Safety Assembly April 13 was to show CHS drivers what to do while driving their cool bicycles or Cads to and from school, the speaker, Mr. George Baker, filled everyone in on the rules, so they wouldn't act like fools.

"Safety" pins were presented to Jackie Barnard and Wilford Taylor as the "Best Drivers in CHS." Wilford was not present at the assembly but was recognized.

Mr. Baker, the district engineer Texas Employers' Insurance Association, was the speaker at the assembly. He has been safety engineer for eight years. His job is to investigate and analyze accidents and give safety talks to groups. "A Formula for Living" was the topic of his address.

Suzanne Simms was recognized for her essay on safety entitled "Let's Improve Our Driving Quotient," which was published in the last issue of The Eagle's Tale.

Theresa Mickey, editor of The Eagle's Tale, was mistress of ceremonies, and Delores Wagner, co-editor of the school paper, gave a poem called "Drivers License" by Edgar A. Guest.

Miss Marilyn Payne, journalism instructor, and Mr. Ray Wells, drivers education instructor, helped during the safety campaign.

Mr. MaGoo looks on as Annelle Dugan, member of The Eagle's Tale staff, presents Jackie Barnard, senior, with a "safety" pin for winning the title of Best CHS Girl Driver. Wilford Taylor was selected as the Best Boy Driver but was not present at assembly. From left to right several participants in the Safety Assembly given Wednesday, April 3, are Annelle Dugan, Mr. George Baker, speaker for the occasion, Jackie Barnard and Mr. Magoo, John Menke.

Survey Reveals Driving Habits

To promote safety in driving and to climax the safety campaign undertaken by The Eagle's Tale staff, Wilford Taylor and Jackie Barnard have been named as the safe drivers of CHS.

Members of the journalism class observed and checked driving habits in front of the CHS building for a period of time and noted the violations committed by CHS students and the names of careful, courteous drivers. A committee selected Jackie and Wilford as the safest drivers of those observed.

A careful survey was made to study traffic violations of teenagers on the local scene. The purpose of the survey was to bring to the drivers' attention the risks they run by careless drivers and by violating the rules and regulations of driving. Ninety per cent of all auto accidents are a direct result of carelessness.

One major item checked on the survey was the teen-age drivers' reaction to stop signs. The survey showed that 114 drivers came to a complete halt at all the stop signs while 181 either rushed on through or merely slowed down.

In checking Canyon's teen-age drivers on the use of signals, these results were noted: 31 gave the necessary signals while 152 gave no signals whatever. This could be summed up in another way. One out of every five of the teenage drivers give the proper signals. Signals are important. They are a way to "share your intentions with the driver behind you."

Also, on the survey were these items: 34 motorists were seen driving at one time or another in the wrong lane. Seventeen drivers had distracting stickers, other than inspection stickers, on their cars. 28 motorists parked incorrectly and 22 cars had loud mufflers.

Although only 17 were observed speeding near the high school, extensive speeding occurred in other parts of the city away from the school building. Do not forget that "Speed Kills," and "why hurry if the minute you save is your last?"

According to these figures and other national statistics, the odds are pretty great that the drivers whose violations helped to make these statistics unfavorable will be involved in an auto accident in the near future.

Thus far these statistics would point to possible accidents at intersections. When you stop to think that four out of five do not give signals when turning and also commit numerous other violations at the intersection, you can plainly see how so many accidents can happen.

On the brighter side of the picture, drivers at CHS portray courtesy to pedestrian more times than they do not. This is particularly good because "courtesy is contagious."

Only two drivers were noticed who were not attentive to their driving at the time they were checked. Still, even one such person can do a great deal of damage.

Another good mark was made in that four out of every six drivers were willing to yield the right of way. Also, only two motorists were detected passing incorrectly and only one having distracting objects hanging from the mirror or visor.

You may think that some of these violations are only minor ones. You just know that you will never be involved in a bad accident? Look at it this way, "and then there was the guy who had only minor accidents. He's only slightly dead."

Or, maybe you are the kind who thinks accidents occur mostly in heavy traffic so you keep away from it. Did you know that 61% of all the fatal accidents involve only one vehicle?

Still, you may come back with this statement: "I will probably be lucky enough not to have an accident." Think this over then. "Good luck ends where carelessness begins."

Even if you are lucky enough not to get injured in an accident, the accident will cost you in damaegs. The average property damage per car accident in the U. S. is about $100. This may not sound like so much but multiplied by the number of accidents in the U. S. in a single year it becomes costly to violate the laws.

There is only one answer to the problem of preventing accidents. That is being able to abide by the rules. Everyone knows the laws and habits of safe driving. The test is putting these rules and good habits into good practice.

Remember when you take that vacation this summer, "let death take a holiday, but not your holiday. Think twice, you only live once."

Do not violate the laws which are set up for your own good and safety. Will you go down the highway to enjoyment or to eternity? It's up to YOU!

Spark FHA Week By Daily Doings

Hard workers are those FHA'ers. Eight girls received their state Homemaking Degrees on March 23 and during this week FHA is participating in National FHA Week.

Florence Clement, Theora Cosby, LaVerne Riley, Beverly Henson, Virginia Walker, Jackie Barnard, Mary Gladys Marshall and Patricia Hardaway received state degrees, and will attend the state meeting in Dallas April 25-26-27.

April 7-13 was designated as Future Homemakers of America Week in Texas by Gov. Price Daniel in recognition of the contributions of this program to the world.

In CHS each day of FHA Week will be full of activities. Monday was "Rose Day" with Nancy McCormick in charge. FHA colors, red and white, were worn on Tuesday. "Mr. Howdy and Miss Hello" were chosen on Wednesday, with Gwen Kelso in charge of the election.

At the regular Thursday night meeting a style show and "Mr. and Miss Howdy" will be presented. Models in the fashion parade will be from all of the homemaking classes. From the third year homemaking class a girl for McCall's nominee will be selected on the basis of her skill as a seamstress, selection and construction of the garment she models, scholarship and citizenship.

Several children will model garments their mothers have made either in homemaking classes or in adult classes. The public is invited to this meeting.

"Plant a Rose Day" is Friday. Jo Ann Prichard is the chairman.

On Cotton John's TV show the emblem service will be presented on Saturday.

On Sunday, FHA'ers will attend church services at the Church of Christ.

Hawkins, Glanton Band Royalties

David Hawkins and Carolyn Glanton were crowned band king and queen of CHS at the annual band banquet on April 5. Dining and dancing, members of the band and their guests had a gay evening packed with enjoyment.

The band king and queen were crowned preceding the dance. Candidates for the honors were Carolyn Glanton, Joyce Shelnutt, Patricia Hardaway, Bonnell Riley, Dana Wilbanks and David Hawkins. Jackie Barnard was mistress of ceremonies for the coronation. Martha Harding crowned the band king, and Brian Tolliver crowned the band queen.

During the banquet Brian Tolliver was the emcee. Entertainment during the banquet was presented by the WT Harmonettes, a girls vocal group. The Saintly Six orchestra played for the dance.

Each year the banquet is given by the band parents for the band members and guests.

Special guests present for the festivities were Mr and Mrs. Joe A. Gibson, Eddie Bowman, Mr. and Mrs. Lee Foster, and Mr. and Mrs. Herman W. Demus.

Driver's Check List

The following is a list of questions which are designed to help each CHS driver improve his habits while at the wheel. Think over the questions then answer them honestly. A really good driver would answer questions 1, 2, 3, 6, 7, 8, 12 and 13 yes; 4, 5, 9, 10, 11 and 14 no.

1. Do you stop at all stop signs, and at all other proper places?
2. Do you give correct signals before turning?
3. Do you stay in the correct lane at all times?
4. Do you drive with the car overcrowded?
5. Do you exceed the speed limit?
6. Do you portray courtesy to pedestrians and other drivers?
7. Are you attentive to your driving?
8. Do you yield the right of way at correct places?
9. Do you pass improperly?
10. Does your car have distracting objects hanging from mirror or visor?
11. Does your car have stickers on the windows other than inspection stickers?
12. Do you park properly?
13. Do you look before backing, back slowly, look back all the time?
14. Does your car have a loud muffler?

Interested in the home improvement demonstration, she began by improving her own bedroom. Refinishing furniture for other rooms and painting walls and planning extra storage came next. Last year the whole family joined forces to re-do an attic room, enlarge the living room, add new furniture and do more painting.

Her leadership is outstanding. In the story of her work, she lists it as one of her favorite activities, and says "What I have gained in 4-H leadership knowledge is now applied in all my activities—school, church, community and other clubs."

She has served as a junior leader for a younger club, held offices in local and county 4-H organizations, served on the State 4-H Council at the State Leadership Laboratory, and helped to organize a district council.

This is the first THDA scholarship ever won by a 4-H girl in District 1, which takes in all the 26 counties of the Panhandle.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Extracts from the 1956 Spencer Chemical Company's Grand Champion Speech given by Harold Scanlan of Abilene, Kans. "My Soil Conservation District—Its Value to My Community" was delivered at the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts Convention at St. Louis Feb. 6-9.

The winner in the national contest, Harold Scanlan, whose winning speech is digested below, won $1,000 at the convention.

"In farming up and down the hill every furrow, rather than a protection, is a gully, carrying away soil, seed, and soluble nutrients to muddy, silt-laden streams. In some parts of our country we have gullysheds, not watersheds.

"A big problem is to slow down the water in periods of heavy rainfall, make it penetrate deep into the subsoil, and hold it there for periods of drouth. Hold it there to supply our needs against lowering watertables, crop failures, dry wells and ponds, as a help in controlling floods and erosion, and the loss of soluble nutrients and organic matter.

"Our greatest problem is the fact that so much time has elapsed without enough overall improvement in conserving soil and water. True, we have many heroic pioneers in conservation, but their work appears small when compared to the conservation still left undone.

"The wind damage of the thirties and the strong rains of the forties created a conservation mood in my county. As a result, a mass meeting of farmers was held and our Soil Conservation District was voted into being.

"Every member of our board is chairman of a special committee for greater service to conservation. The other members of these committees are farmers, bankers, businessmen, working to unite our thinking on conservation problems. Our board believes that creating a conservation desire in people is fundamental to actual accomplishment.

More of this speech will be in next week's column.

Electricity Works For Sorenson From Egg to Egg

VETERAN POULTRYMAN PREDICTS BRIGHT FUTURE FOR EGG PRODUCERS.

From egg to egg electrically defines the success of Nels Sorenson, pioneer hatcheryman and egg producer, Amarillo area.

Nels entered the poultry industry when it was "egg money" for the farm housewife. Through 36 years in the poultry industry, he has developed many electric applications for profitable and efficient chicken and egg production.

He depends on electricity to incubate the eggs, brood the chicks, warm the water, operate an automatic feeder, and provide 14 hours of light per day and egg refrigeration. In addition, Sorenson employs Reddy Kilowatt to grind and mix his feed, pump his water, and keep water pipes thawed. The veteran poultryman's electric operation is coupled with strict sanitation practices and a mandatory vaccination program.

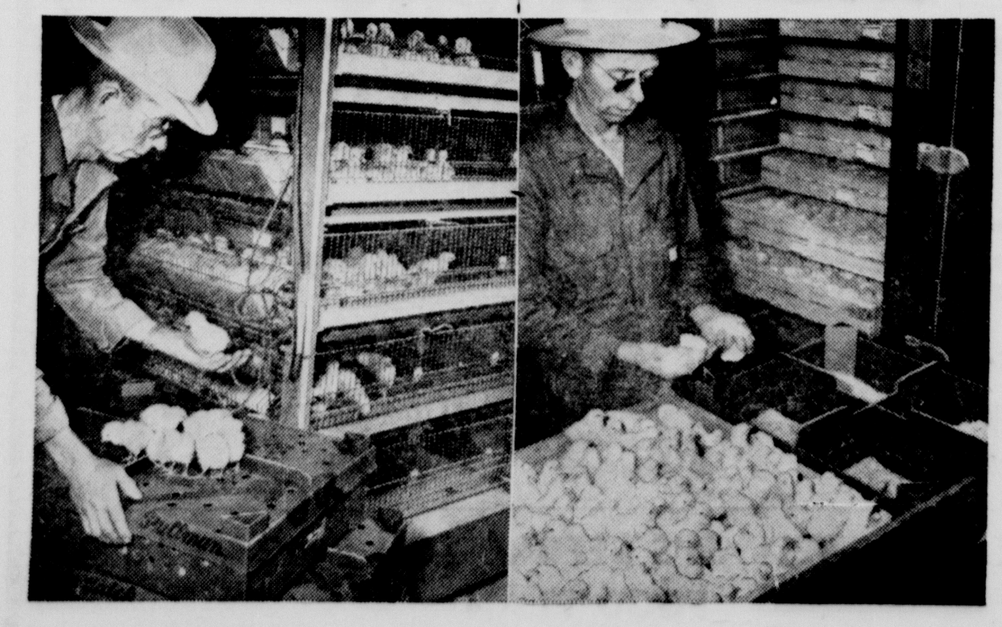

Sorenson's poultry raising activities have progressed from selling hatching eggs to being one of the major egg and chicken producers in the area. His thermostatically controlled incubators can hatch 9000 eggs per week, and he has space in his electric battery brooders for 15,000 chicks.

Sorenson is optimistic about the egg picture despite the current low price in eggs. He bases his favorable outlook on the reduction in the number of chicks put down this spring.

"Seventeen percent less laying pullets are being put down in the Southwest than a year ago, Sorenson remarked, "and it indicates a high egg market next fall and winter."

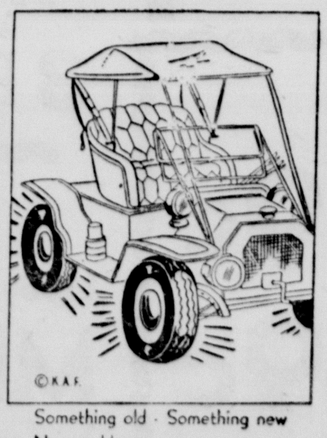

From electric incubator to electric home where the future laying hens will live for the next three weeks. Sorenson's loss during this brooding is less than ¼ of 1%.

Controlled breeding and electric incubation gives Nels Sorenson an 87 to 90% hatch. Picture shows him examining and counting one of his bi-weekly hatches.

Cherry Blossoms

BY DOVIE CHERRY

A hobby that's worth its time is certainly one that gives pleasure and doesn't involve so much time and effort that it ends up being more work than the regular job that's supposed to be causing frayed nerves and tensions, it says somewhere.

Mrs. James P. Cornette's hobby is one that gives her a great deal of pleasure, and the greatest pleasure comes when she gives her hobby away. Growing African violets is Mrs. Cornette's hobby, and she loves to share it with people.

Some might think that growing African violets would be a time and effort consuming pastime, but not so according to her. "Some people think that violets are hard to grow, but actually I think they are the easiest thing to grow," Mrs. Cornette said.

And she should know, for her collection ranges from 100 to 150 plants in 45 varieties.

The hobby began four years ago with a plant received more or less by chance. At the Woman's Book Club Christmas party, Mrs. Cornette drew the gift of the African violet put under the club tree by Mrs. Clyde McElroy, and "it just grew from there."

She started plants from the original gift plant and people began giving her violets on different occasions. But, it wasn't until about two years ago, when Mrs. Cornette broke her ankle, that she really began to devote time to the violets.

Among the varieties placed on a three-tiered table in the living room, on tables in the den facing east and in the master bedroom are plants known as the Edith Cavall, the White Madonna, the Carol Queen, Blue Iris and Pink Neptune, to name a few.

Mrs. Cornette says her favorite is the Bicolor and that it is one of the best bloomers.

By trial and error and through reading literature on African violets, she has developed certain techniques in tending the plants. She prefers to start plants in vermiculite rather than water. When shoots appear she transfers them to a two or three inch pot to bloom.

In the latter pot she puts first a piece of flower pot pottery for drainage, then a layer of gravel and a layer of sand and tops this with soil mixture including such ingredients as bone meal, peat moss, sulphur phosphate and charcoal.

When it rains around here Mrs. Cornette is just as happy as the farmers, because she believes there is nothing better for her violets than good old rain water. She had the gutter spouts in the back of the house shortened so that she could catch tubs of water when it does rain and she places everything from buckets to lard tubs around the house.

When the big snow of February '56 fell, she melted the snow and used the water for her violets. "It took forever and ever," she said.

When she does run out of rain water Mrs. Cornette uses country well water. According to her, it's the chlorine that burns the roots of the plants. "I believe my plants have done a lot better since I started using rain water," she said.

To provide a humid atmosphere she places the pots in boxes of damp gravel, and she prefers to water the violets from the top rather than the bottom of the pot.

Some people have remarked to Mrs. Cornette that their violets won't bloom. In answer to this, she says, "I believe until they get light and sun they won't bloom."

Mrs. Cornette keeps a number of plants in the basement in a simple, square board construction covered with panes of glass. She puts in starter plants and uses florescent lighting to keep them growing. "They say a lot of things about florescent lighting, but it still isn't magic," she said. The best light of all, as far as she is concerned, is the sun.

Mrs. Roy Clark, wife of the news editor of the Hereford Brand, remarked Sunday that their youngest son, Kevin, had coined a word of which he makes extensive use. The word is amn't. "I amn't going to do it," he says.

When you think about it, that's pretty logical since we use the other contractions such as can't and don't.

Graduations are exciting and memorable events whether it be graduation from high school, college or just from the kindergarten to the primary Sunday School class.

Sometimes I think that perhaps the first graduation in Sunday School or from kindergarten is the most exciting at the time even if we don't remember too much about it in later years.

The 26 children who graduated recently from the kindergarten taught by Mrs. T. L. Devin and Mrs. K. E. Hines ought to remember the event for some time —two weeks anyway. It's not every kindergarten graduate that receives an authentic styled diploma and wears a long, white gown and a scholar's cap with a Howdy-Doody design on top.

The youngsters had just completed a seven months school and received their diplomas at a graduation program in the Fellowship Hall of the First Methodist Church with parents and guests present.

Congratulations to the new school board members, Mrs. R. A. Neblett and Mrs. Clay Cooper. This election was satisfactory to me not only because two women were elected, but because of the number of people who voted. It was a good improvement over the usual school board election totals.

Mrs. Bob Bellah and Mrs. Jack Swatzell decided they surely chose a wrong time to visit Dallas. They were in Dallas during the tornado, but were out of the zone that was struck. Cecelia Bellah said she was mighty glad they came into Dallas on Monday instead of Tuesday because they would have been right in the area that was hit.

Bob Bellah didn't have much time to worry. He was taking care of both the Bellah and Swatzell younguns.

Mr. and Mrs. Swan Pettit and daughter, Jane, of Hale Center were visitors in the W. H. Lewis home Sunday.

Diet Important HD Women Told

The importance of good food and a balanced diet was the main subject discussed at the meeting of the Fairview HD Club Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Grace Schaeffer.

Mrs. Mona Hildreth, HD agent, discussed the necessity of a balanced diet for adults as well as children, and urged the women to follow the Texas food standard closely.

The agent also demonstrated how to make hot cheese balls for between-meal snacks.

The eight members and one visitor participated in a spelling match for opening exercise which was followed by reports from committees.

Finance committee announced an old-fashioned supper of red beans and the trimmings at the club house April 27. Plates will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

Club women and their families were urged by the civil defense committee to be prepared to care for at least one refugee in case of enemy attack.

Refreshments of Hi-Ho sandwiches, angel food cake and punch were served by the hostess. The next meeting will be with Mrs. J. W. Wesley on April 19.

WARREN'S

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

After five weeks of headline making, three Legislative investigating committees still are busy. House committee looking into ICT's failure was to run until April 1; Senate committee to April 10.

Recent additions to the committee's massive records:

1. Several former ICT directors denied having signed a document wiping out a $900,000 debt owed ICT by Jack Cage and Co. Shown photostat of such a document, they said it was not the instrument they signed.

2. Leaders in the Texas Federation of Labor called Ben Jack Cage, former manager of ICT, a "scoundrel." Union members had invested millions in the company.

3. A number of union members and officials told how they were paid by Cage to help advance the cause of ICT among labor members. One said he thought he was was to keep to himself his belief that Cage was a "crook."

4. Max Wayne Rychlik, son-in-law of former Insurance Commission Chairman Garland Smith, remembered an additional $9,800 he had received from a Ben Jack Cage affiliate. It made a total of $18,200 paid Rychlik for his "job" without work.

5. House members investigating bribery charges questioned the former executive secretary of the Texas Naturopathic Association. But Albert D. Brown, who was with the organization back in 1955, could give only estimates and guesses on how TNA had spent some $20,000 raised during the last session for "legislative education."

6. John McCully, labor union employee, had a difficult time accounting for his expenditures of union funds. In his operation of the union's publicity office, the Action Agency in Austin, he "accidentally" dropped a few political advertising bills into ICT files.

Big Push

Legislators face a killing pace for the next few weeks if they are to finish session in 120 days. After that point, their pay ceases. Time is almost two-thirds gone. Multiple investigations have diverted a lot of time and energy. Important bills are stacked up.

But a major milestone — passage of the general appropriations bill — is in sight. Senate committee approved it for floor action this week. House already has passed it.

Senate committee's version differs slightly. It includes a 10 per cent raise for lower-bracket state employees, 15 per cent for college teachers.

Wrapping up the big money bill will put the session over the hump in the minds of most members. Meanwhile, both houses are hacking at the small stuff. Special sessions have turned out local and uncontested bills at the rate of one a minute.

Code of Ethics

Scandals and investigations put new impetus behind the administration-backed drive for a code of ethics and lobby registration act.

But it hasn't made the subject much easier to agree on than in previous sessions. Objectors claimed it isn't possible to pass a law making people honest.

House, nevertheless, passed a bill to third reading. It would require registration of persons paid to appear before state agencies. Officials would be prohibited from using their public office for private gain, accepting gifts, favors or services that might influence official action, etc.

Sponsors fought off an attempted amendment requiring officials to file a written statement of their earnings from all sources.

Delay Granted

Physicians Life and Accident Ins. Co. has until April 11 to present a more favorable picture to the Insurance Commission.

Commission's show cause order alleged the firm's capital was impaired. Former Gov. Coke Stevenson, head of the company, said the management is "making progress" toward recovery of needed funds. He asked and was granted more time to prepare the case before the Commission.

Depositors Denied Preference

US Trust and Guaranty Co. creditors will have to "share and share alike."

At least that is the decision of Austin Dist. Judge Charles O. Betts. Depositors had brought suit asking for first claim. Several contended the company's advertising, by Drew Pearson, led them to believe their funds were being held "in trust."

US Trust went bankrupt more than a year ago. Assets salvaged by the liquidator total a little more than $2,000,000. Claims against it add up to nearly $7,000,000.

Distribution of these assets may be held up further if depositors decide to appeal.

Utilities Contest

Private and cooperative utilities have moved the arena of their chronic combat from courts to the Legislature.

A recent Supreme Court decision held that a co-op could continue to serve customers in an area annexed by a city but could not add customers in that area.

Co-ops are working for passage of a bill that would give them this right of expansion. It provoked hot debate before a Senate committee.

Private power company spokesmen said the co-ops were trying to go far beyond the original concept of the rural electrification program. Co-op attorney contended present restrictions would mean "slow death" to REA.

Bill was sent to subcommittee to work out compromise.

Water Bills Move

Piece by piece, the mammoth water conservation program is moving forward.

Key feature, the $200,000,000 bond program to help finance local conservation projects, went to joint conference committee for final adjustments.

Senate committee gave approval to the next big item, another $200,000,000 bond issue. This would be used to buy water storage space in federal dams. Committee also approved a bill which would allow use of public storm and flood waters to recharge underground reservoirs.

New Youth Agency

Creation of a state youth authority has received Senate committee approval.

The new authority would have charge of the state's three training schools at Gatesville, Gainesville and Crockett. It would replace the present State Youth Development Council.

Housing in Canyon

This house is being built by Glenn Gardner at 2404 Eleventh Avenue. The permit, issued in February, is for $14,000.

Taxmen Finish Series With Errors From Casualty Loss Deductions

This is the twelfth and last in a series of 12 articles prepared by the Internal Revenue Service to assist taxpayers in avoiding tax audits. Today we are presenting the five most common reasons why the Internal Revenue Service is required to adjust Casualty Loss Deductions:

(1) In general, casualty losses are limited to losses sustained through natural physical forces, which occur suddenly and unexpectedly.

(2) A casualty loss deduction is limited to losses to property owned by the taxpayer and further limited to losses not caused by willful negligence of the taxpayer.

(3) A casualty loss is limited to the lesser of the adjusted basis of the property or the difference between the fair market value of the property before and after the casualty reduced by any insurance or other recovery.

(4) Damage to non-business trees or ornamental shrubs is measured by the reduction in the value of the entire property and not the cost of planting or replacing the plants. The loss is further limited to the lesser of the cost or adjusted basis reduced by any insurance or other recovery.

(5) In determining the amount of casualty loss, sentimental values are excluded.

Taxpayers can avoid tax audits by following the tax instructions. Taxpayers needing additional information after reading the tax instructions received by mail, can send 30 cents to the U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C., for "Your Federal Income Tax - 1956."

This series of articles has been presented in hope of assisting you in avoiding errors that cause tax audits by pointing out the most common errors taxpayers make and which have been adjusted by the Internal Revenue Service.

HILA BEGERT

Hila Begert Engagement Revealed; Wedding Will Be May 18 at Church

The engagement and approaching marriage of Hila Begert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Begert, to Paul E. Pepmiller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Pepmiller of East Prairie, Mo., was announced Saturday at a coffee in the Begert's home northwest of Canyon.

Gold inscribed satin streamers on the serving table announced the wedding date, May 18. The ceremony will be in the First Methodist Church at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Roscoe Richardson, Mrs. Carl Wielding and Mrs. C. L. Hooper, aunts of the bride-elect, presided at the table which was centered with an arrangement of shasta daisies around entwining gold, sparkled wedding rings. The table was laid with a white, cutwork cloth over yellow and was pointed with silver.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Begert, Hila and Mrs. G. T. Richardson, grandmother of the bride-elect. Mrs. Terry Petty and Erlene Markham registered the guests.

In the house party were Mrs. Thelma Wiggins, Nancy, Lee Ruthie and Vickie Wiggins, Mrs. Ed Bourn and Wanda, Mrs. Clarence Howard, Mrs. Bill Bauer, Mrs. Joe Frank and Vilma, Mrs. Math Albracht and Shirley, Mrs. Clark Dowlen and Mrs. George Brockman.

Did you ever see it fail . . .

That when you get the house straight, your hair combed and a fresh dress on by 10 a. m., nobody comes near you? But if you're crowding the noon hour in a frumpy housecoat, trying to finish cleaning the kitchen stove, with hair flying in all directions, Mrs. So-and-So, the new neighbor, appears looking crisp to return your pie plate?

That you can have 47 good lunches in a row, but just let the larder get so low your noon meal looks like a pigmy's fast day, and the spouse calls at a quarter of twelve:

"Guess who's sitting right here in my office? John Jones. Remember? From college? I'm bringing him home to lunch; I promised you wouldn't go to any trouble."

The last time this happened at our house it pretty nearly capsized the boat.

It would be the day before the weekly visit to the grocery store. We had in the stove one small pork chop apiece — not much margin there. The package of frozen peas, thank goodness, could be divided by three. We had planned baked sweet potatoes, only one of the two in the refrigerator was badly damaged, so there was one. We're great on desserts, but that day we decided we wouldn't need one. The lettuce made three small salads, and luckily there were biscuits.

With the two men sitting in the living room, we started frantically combing the emergency shelf. We opened some homemade relish — which would have been fine if there had been any meat to serve it on. We found a jar of plum pudding that had been there for ages — no time to make hard sauce or steam it. We opened a jar of guava jelly.

About all we got out of the experience besides a red-faced husband and a deflated ego, was a vow never, never to get caught short again, so help us!

Vera Ruth Fell, Donald Hammons Wed Recently in Colorado Church

Nuptial vows were solemnized recently for Vera Beth Fell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Fell of Kit Carson, Colo., and Donald P. Hammons, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Hammons. The Rev. Ray Reimler, pastor, read the double-ring service in the Methodist Church at Kit Carson. The altar was decorated with candelabra, white carnations and greenery.

Mrs. Emnitt Evans played prelude music and accompanied Ann Gunderson and Mrs. Bennie Gibbs as they sang "Walk Hand in Hand With Me," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." Richard Fell, brother of the bride, played traditional wedding marches.

Donna Fell and Marilyn Fell attended their sister as maid of honor and bridesmaid, respectively. They wore identical, ballerina length dresses of blue and silver lace over blue taffeta accented with blue satin cumberbund. Their bouquets were of pink carnations with silver ribbons.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor length gown of white bridal satin fashioned with a fitted bodice, long sleeves that tapered to points over the wrist and a full skirt. A tiny crown held her fingertip veil of white net. She wore the traditional something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue. Her bridal bouquet was of white daisies and roses and was centered with an American Beauty rosebud corsage.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Fell chose a blue suit with navy accessories and she wore a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Hammons wore a brown suit, beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

Here's what makes it a new kind of Ford

The frame is wider . . . wheels are lower

(Lets you ride sweet and low)

Never before has a low-priced car hugged the road so well. Partly, it's because the frame is sturdier. Partly, it's because the wheels are smaller. Partly, it's the way front and rear suspensions take tilt out of turns. Mostly, it's because there's a whole new smoother-riding quieter-going "Inner Ford."

The power is bigger

(Most power in Ford's 25 years of V-8 leadership)

And what a V-8 engine! You can have the kind of Thunderbird power that smashed records at Daytona . . . set a new stock car mark at Indianapolis . . . traveled 50,000 miles in just 20 days at Bonneville, Utah!

The comfort is greater

(You've never had it so plush)

You sit in the lap of luxury. There's head room, hip room, leg room galore. And wait till you get a load of those new upholsteries and color schemes!

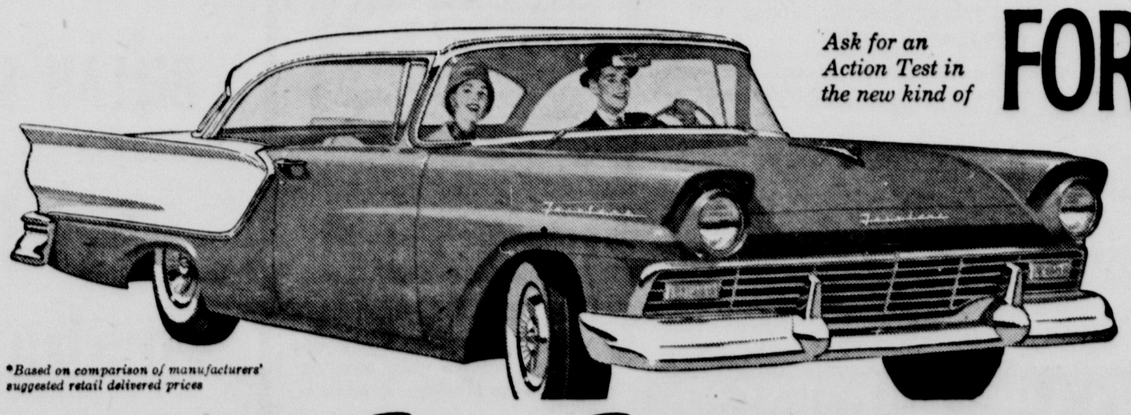

The body is "beefier"

(Up to 9 inches longer, 4 inches lower, with full head room, full road clearance)

From top to floor, front to rear, this body is built like a "battleship." You ride surrounded by new strength.

...and best of all it's the lowest priced* of the low-price three !
